

ALBERT IN LIVE DRAMA

Eddie Albert and Dolores Gray will star in "Famous," a lighthearted drama about a celebrated Broadway composer torn between two women, to be seen "live" on the U.S. Steel Hour, Wednesday, May 31, at 10 p.m. PDT, via channel 2. Louise Allbritton will also appear in the teleplay, adapted by Bob Van Scoyk from a story by Stephen Vincent Benet.

Determined to keep his two willful teen-agers away from show business, Jordan Blake (Albert) a widower, assigns the job of rearing them to his snobbish sister-in-law, Susan (Miss Allbritton, Carolina Clay (Miss Gray) a musical comedy star who is in love with Jordan, suspects that Susan would like to marry Jordan. When his son, Jerry, is expelled from prep school for a prank, Jordan decides to take the youngsters and Susan to a summer resort outside New York—partly to keep the boy, who is determined to follow in his father's footsteps, away from show business. Shortly after they are settled, Carolina arrives on the scene to protect her interests, but when she champions young Jerry's right to pursue a song writing career, she succeeds only in alienating Jordan and strengthening the hand of her rival.

Paul Bogart will direct the May 31 offering. The Steel Hour is produced by the Theatre Guild, George Kondoff, executive producer.

SGT. CHRIS BALLARD, alias Mark Goddard in real life, is frequently assigned to protect pretty young women in the "Detectives," Fridays at 10 p.m. over Channel 7.

SUCCESSFUL LAWMEN are, from left, Jock Gaynor, Barton MacLane and Don Collier. The trio emotes on NBC's "Outlaws," seen every Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

YOU are going way out . . . for the artists in our own locale. The preceding articles on GALLERY GLIMPSES seems to be catching on . . . places to go . . . on a leisurely Sunday afternoon. . . .

The response from artists . . . THE GALLERIES . . . well . . . people in general . . . who recognize, and want to be associated with the ever increasing need . . . to be a part of the WORLD OF ART.

So . . . YOU are a SUNDAY artist . . . YOU like to paint for your own enjoyment . . . to create . . . well YOU are not alone. Some of the very finest paintings have emerged from a momentary thought . . . an URGE to create . . . something YOU have captured to hold on canvas . . . like the idea? . . . Well so does TEMPO.

So come with me . . . we have a date . . . at the ARTISTS GALLERY CO-OPERATIVE at 121 South Pacific Ave., Redondo Beach . . . where the one-man show of Byron Rodarmel from May 28 to June 10 opens with a public reception on Sunday, May 28, from 4 to 7 p. m.

The Indiana born artist, who was a paratrooper during the war, turned to serious painting upon coming to California to live and continued his studies at El Camino College.

Mr. Rodarmel's show consists of figurative paintings in oil, with emphasis on the rhythm and movement of the individual figure as well as that found in groups of figures. He also presents landscapes and harbor scenes in watercolor.

ELSA NELSON and ROSEMARY DUMAS of THE GALLERY brought to light an interesting footnote concerning BYRON RODARME . . . the ARTIST. He was awarded . . . FIRST and SECOND prizes at the recent INGLEWOOD ART FESTIVAL (OILS).

TEMPO'S feelings . . . "a contemporary ARTIST . . . pleasing to the realist". . .

There is a continuous ART showing . . . of members at this GALLERY . . .

So happy YOU . . . had this date with me . . . As TEMPO said . . . and will repeat, "See your favorite ARTISTS . . . visit the GALLERIES . . ."

CBS in World-Wide Exchange Programs

A historic milestone in television, an international program exchange, was announced today by Merle S. Jones, president, CBS Television Stations Division. The exchange will involve the five CBS owned television stations and various foreign broadcasting companies.

Starting in mid-June and continuing for a period of several months, KNXT and the four other CBS owned television stations will broadcast the "International Hour." Negotiations are currently being completed with the foreign broadcasting companies and the complete series of programs will be announced by June 1. "The American Musical Theatre," award-winning television series produced by WCBS-TV, New York, has been selected as the program to be shown on foreign television networks and stations.

In announcing the international program exchange, Jones said, "this project is a major step toward the exchange of television programs in the Free World. The CBS owned television stations and the foreign broadcasters are acting on a mutual faith in the power of the television medium to bring peoples of the world closer together. Cultural exchanges such as we are currently undertaking cannot only greatly benefit the people in the countries involved, but can also help close national ideological gaps and promote better understanding throughout the world."

Jones noted that the exchange will enable viewers of the five CBS owned television stations, representing approximately one-third of the television homes in the United States, to see the series produced abroad. "At the same time, tens of millions in other countries will be afforded an opportunity to view "The American Musical Theatre," a series which by tracing the development of the Broadway musical, shows a unique facet of America's culture and history."

Negotiations are being conducted for CBS by Hal Hough, director, program services, CBS television stations, and Ralph M. Baruch, director, International Sales, CBS Films, Inc.

In addition to KNXT, the other CBS owned television stations are WCBS-TV New York, WBBM-TV Chicago, WCAU-TV Philadelphia and KMOX-TV St. Louis.
